

2019-2020

Local - Independence Education Center

McMaster Fellow

Carla Higgins, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Education, Director of Education

McMaster Associate Fellow

Clarissa Barnes, Ph.D., BCBA-D, Associate Professor of Special Education, Director of the Hench Autism Studies Program

McMaster Scholars

Kaitlyn Hughes, Junior, Design and Marketing - This project create lessons and activities to promote skill building, stress reduction, and expression through art at the Independent Education Center. These art lessons will be offered to the school children of various ages and will focus on developing coping skills, such as self-expression and relaxation.

Cory Sidle, Senior, Education - Integrated Social Studies - This project inform students about America government process including elections and voting. As the upper level students get close to the voting age it is important to inform student to be proactive about voting and how to inform themselves about the various candidates by accessing reputable sources.