

AFLV Conference Application

Due by Friday, January 20, 2012

The Association of Fraternal Leadership and Values (AFLV) is a national organization that focuses its mission on providing experiences that challenge and encourage fraternity/sorority members to live ethical values and implement best practices. One of these educational tools is the AFLV Conference taking place in St. Louis, MS from February 9-12.

Defiance College's Student Life Division is sponsoring three students to attend this great conference and use the knowledge they acquire at this conference for the betterment of the Greek community. We are looking for students who are committed to the values of their individual organizations, active in the local and college community, and who aspire to lead the Greek community for years to come. Ideally, we would like to take an individual from each organization but if none apply, we will fill the spot with the next available candidate.

All conferences and hotel fees will be covered by the College along with a few meals. Students will be responsible for Thursday lunch, Friday dinner, and Sunday lunch.

The conference format will be a mix of hot topic educational sessions, entertainment, and featured speakers. For more information, it is encouraged to go to the following address:
