

DC INTERNATIONAL to
VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA

A Search for Identity

Immerse yourself in the rich history of British Columbia's Aboriginal people, in one of the most beautiful settings on earth.

MARCH, 2017 [6 DAYS]

CO-PAY $595*

*Co-pay for active members of the Carolyn M. Small HONORS Program is $195

Additional expenses include meals not covered in the program, a valid passport, travel insurance.

All students traveling to Vancouver will be required to enroll in MCC299 – Study in Vancouver: A Search for Identity (2 credit hours) during 2017 spring semester.

We will call Vancouver, a classic Pacific Northwest city, our home base. Vancouver, situated between the coastal mountains and the Pacific Ocean, offers stunning scenery, intriguing cultural experiences, and exhilarating outdoor activities.

This is an opportunity to be immersed in a diverse, cultured city surrounded by spectacular natural beauty. Vancouver is widely considered to be Canada's culinary and cultural capital.

Begin, or continue on, your own personal journey of discovery. While learning how the First Nations People have fought and advocated to reclaim theirs.

Come along and learn about yourself and how others have travelled a path to overcoming barriers.

Taste, experience, learn, and take the risk of knowing more about who you are through a thrilling adventure to the Pacific Northwest.

For more information contact – McMaster Office, Mary Ann Studer mstuder@defiance.edu

Please be aware that this trip includes activities that will involve extended walking and some climbing. Also be aware that various activities will place you high above the ground via gondola, bridge, and platform.